Pastor's Corner Happy Independence Day

In 1947 India's first Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru had announced India's independence with his speech Tryst with Destiny: "Long years ago, we made a tryst with destiny, and now the time comes when we shall redeem our pledge, not wholly or in full measure, but very substantially. At the stroke of the midnight hour, when the world sleeps, India will awake to life and freedom."

As we celebrate another anniversary of our country's Independence we are painfully aware that we are far from that reality which Mr. Nehru had envisioned! One reason could be the wrong notion of freedom that we have—doing what we like. But as St. John Paul II would say, "Freedom consists not in doing what we like, but in having the right to do what we ought."

Another reason is that we tend to ask what are others doing for the country—our leaders, our neighbors, our soldiers—that is, what are they doing. Rather, than what am I doing. Flor McCarthy tells a story of one winter's day when a man came upon a small boy sitting begging on a wind-swept city bridge. The boy was shivering from the cold and obviously in need of a good meal. On seeing him the man got very angry and said to God: "God why don't you do something about this boy?" And God replied, "I have already done something about him." This surprised the man so he said, "I hope you don't mind me saying this, but whatever you did, it doesn't seem to be working." "I agree with you there," replied God. "By the way, what did you do?" the man asked. "I made you" came the reply from God!

Each of us must realize that a lot of wrong we see in our country today is partly because of me. We must find out how it needs me to do my part in realizing this dream of making my country great. I wish you a Happy Independence Day and Happy Feast of the Assumption of Mother Mary. +Lumen, CSC succeed in concealing deep-rooted hurts and helplessness we seem to be wrestling with somewhere deep inside us.

If instead of trying to address our inadequacies, we, vulture-like, keep swooping down on carcasses wherever they may be found, then, we too perhaps stand in need of an equal measure of understanding and pity. All such 'expose', however veracious, calls for sympathy not only for the one being exposed, but also for those who choose to fritter away their opportunities to be dignified and benevolent, on sleaze and squalor.

It's the month of August we have just stepped into, and it reminds us of 'freedom'. Have we mistaken true freedom for the rush of adrenaline we feel when armed with gigabytes we ain't sure how to spend? Saint John Paul II it was who said, "Freedom consists not in doing what we like, but in having the right to do what we ought."

Editorial CELEBRANTS OF SQUALOR

These days we are seeing the emergence of a group who seem to think their God-given mission in life is to gather dirt of all sorts, spread it and celebrate it with unparalleled glee and vigor. They take to social media platforms like Facebook and WhatsApp with astonishing fervor quite unmindful of the possible ramifications of their doings. Often it amounts to a sort of moral policing, which, no doubt, in itself, is a pleasurable activity, and also produces the illusion of setting oneself up on a moral pedestal for the world to see. The public domain in which such policing takes place also provides opportunities for like-minded legislators to pat each other on the backs and feel themselves 'not like the rest of humanity'.

At times it is more than mere moral policing. It is mob lynching, the virtual version. Armed only with smart phone and net pack in place of iron rods and knives, it allows one to participate in a no-holds barred, free-for-all orgy that comes with the additional advantage of seeming anonymity and absolute 'freedom'.

Are these Whatsapp warriors and Facebook predators forgetting that besides helping to spread the stench of dirt to wider circles, such intolerance of fragility and vulnerability also encourages a compassion-deficit in society? Have we all forgotten the legacy given us by someone, who, we are told "does not break the crushed reed or snuff the faltering wick?" (Is 42:3)

The maturity and depth of a society's moral moorings can be gauged by the extent of its compassion and by its capacity to distinguish between weakness and malice. It doesn't really take a great deal of investigation to realize that weaknesses and failures have been part of human nature from time immemorial. By gleefully celebrating instances of other's failures and faltering aren't we perhaps giving away more of ourselves than we realize? The venomous remarks and rejoinders we publicly pass about other's foibles and frailties seldom

KUMARGHAT PARISH

Parish Feast Day

This year the Parish feast Day was celebrated on the 1st July 2018. The parishioners were prepared for the Feast spiritually by having nine days Novena to St. Paul in their own villages. On the Parish Feast day we felt the presence of the Lord because all the other days there used to be rain and very hot. But on the Feast Day we had wonderful pleasant weather. The Feast day program began by hoisting of the Parish flag by our dear Bishop Lumen. He then presided over the Holy Eucharist which was concelebrated by many Priests from the nearby Parishes. After the Eucharistic celebration the faithful devotionally joined in the Eucharistic procession. Fr. Davis Konuran CSC led the Adoration with a inspiring homily followed by the cultural program. Fr. Aneesh Mathew CSC warmly welcomed every one. Bishop Lumen in his message appreciated the unity among the parishioners and he inaugurated the year long celebrations of the Golden Jubilee of Kumarghat Parish. The Feast day ended with a fellowship meal. Fr. Arul J CSC

Mothers' Day

The Maria Sangha (Women's group) is a very active group in the Parish. Animation of the liturgy every Sunday, organizing prayer services, visiting the families, taking the utmost care that the Parish Church is always kept clean and tidy--one could continue to recount the numerous activities that they undertake! A significant day in the Parish calendar was 13th May, when Mothers' day was celebrated in a grand way. Fr. Lawrence Darlong celebrated the Holy Mass and had another hour of animation with them. The session and the discussion that followed energized the group to continue the parish activities tirelessly. The Bible quiz and the singing added vivacity and joy. Eagerness to learn and proclaim the Word makes the group enthusiastic and the Parish is much richer for that! Fr. Sunny, SDB

Agartala airport renamed

The Union Cabinet, chaired by the Prime Minister, Shri Narendra Modi, on 4th July gave its approval to rename the Agartala Airport in Tripura as 'Maharaja Bir Bikram Manikya Kishore Airport, Agartala. The decision comes in the wake of the long pending demand of people of Tripura as well as the Tripura Government for paying tribute to Maharaja Bir Bikram Manikya Kishore. As a visionary ruler, who had traveled extensively across the globe, he took several steps for the all-round development of Tripura. Due to his initiative, an aerodrome at Agartala was constructed and is today the second busiest airport in the North East and provides crucial air connectivity to Tripura. (timesnews)

Delhi launches 'happiness curriculum' to curb suicides

The Dalai Lama, Tibet's spiritual leader, helped to launch a new "happiness curriculum" at Schools in the Indian capital on July 2 as a mental health crisis looms along with a recent spike in student suicides. The state government in Delhi has made the curriculum mandatory at all of its schools, with meditation, lessons on moral values and other mental exercises now firmly entrenched. Education experts hailed the move as a crucial intervention to improve pupils' mental health. Data shows 25 students commit suicide every day in India. The number hit 8,934 in 2015, according to statistics from the National Crimes Records Bureau, and climbed to 9,474 the following year or more than one self-inflicted student death an hour... An official from the Catholic Church, which manages the largest network of private schools in the country, welcomed the move. "Joyful learning is the key. We can overcome all of the issues with that," said Father Joseph Manipadam, Secretary of the Indian Bishops' Office. He coordinates a network of 50,000 Catholic educational institutions, including 400 colleges, six universities and six medical schools. "In India, students are overburdened with academic and examination-related pressure," he said, adding church-run schools have already made efforts to make education a more joyful experience. (CNUA)

Mother's milk bank benefits 20,000 infants

Aanchal, the mother's milk bank established in 18 District Government Hospitals of Rajasthan, has benefited about 20,000 infants and helped improve their nutrition levels. The bank collects excess breast milk from lactating mothers and provides it to infants deprived of it. Rajasthan is the first State in the country to establish a government-run community milk banking system, following Chief Minister Vasundhara Raje's budgetary announcement for it in 2015-16. Infants with mothers who are unable to feed them due to clinical reasons, or those who are orphaned or abandoned, can receive mother's milk from the bank. Dr. Mamta Gupta, one of two private doctors from the State to bag the Prime Minister's Surakshit Matritva Abhiyan awards for rendering efficient services to pregnant women, said at a review meeting at the Swasthya Bhavan here that the milk bank system would be strengthened.

Thailand Cave Rescue

The Moo Pa (Wild Boars) academy Team, whose ages range from 11 to 16, became trapped with their 25-year-old coach, Ekaphol Chantawong, inside the six-mile Tham Luang cave in the Doi Nang Non mountain range on 23 June. Nine days later rescue divers located the Team sheltering on a ledge surrounded by water. About two miles of narrow, flooded passageways separated their refuge from the main entrance. Efforts to pump water out began immediately as authorities tried to take advantage of a break in monsoon rains.

How did the rescue work? (See diagram below) Round-the-clock pumping paid off with conditions said to be walkable in some parts of the cave. But the rescue operation still hinged on the boys using scuba equipment despite having no previous diving experience. Each boy was to be accompanied by two divers with the rescuers facing an 11-hour round trip. After 18 days the final four boys and their coach were rescued from the cave to complete the three-day rescue operation. The last of the Wild Boars then followed their team-mates to hospital where they will be kept in isolation for up to seven days to avoid the risk of infection.
